

Do the math

Letter

Published: The Gazette Tuesday, March 20, 2007

Re: "Is recycling really worth it?" (Opinion, March 15).

Didn't anyone do the math? Barry Cooper writes a 100-metre-deep, nine-kilometre-square pit is all that's required to contain the world's trash for the next 1,000 years. That would allow each person on the planet, each year, a landfill storage allotment the size of a one-litre container of milk.

Al Hayek

Montreal